Did you know?

The first Spring flowers are typically lilacs, irises, lilies, tulips, daffodils, and dandelions.

You don't have to choose between play and learning — and you shouldn't.

The debate over play versus learning has long been settled. Studies show that children develop more complex vocabularies, understand sophisticated math concepts, and retain information better when they learn through play. They even learn self-control more easily by pretending to be a fictional character.
